AMERICAN HONOR IS AGAIN BASELY BETRAYED BY WILSON

If the people are going to permit Woodrow Wilson to stay on the job in Washington, they might just as well appoint a committee to pull down the pillars of liberty. What's the use of having the same thing anyway if we have a president who doesn't care a continental for American honor? If we are not going to transplant a green-and-gold-green-and-gold business according to Hoyle, we ought to take down our sign.

Matthew Wilson has been guilty of another base betrayal of American honor. We were about to overlook it but the Outlook, which makes a specialty of keeping score on the shortcomings of the president, has called attention to it and we turned to place the evidence before the jury before the case of America vs. Wilson was decided yesterday. It is worse than all the Mexican outrages, worse than the Louisiana, worse even than the bombing of "worthy Democrats" and the appointment of a huckster to a high official position; in fact, it is the climax in the series of disgraceful acts whereby Wilson has surrendered all the rights and traditions that are dear to the heart of every American citizen as are the precious "memories of our childhood when food recalls present scenes to view."

The Outlook informs us that the administration has consented to the erection of a heating and power plant in the city of Washington at a place where it will disfigure the city's beauty. Now what do you think of that, fellow-patriots? Ain't it truly awful! The attorney of Mr. Hughes was called to this afternoon and he wrote a letter in which he admitted that this act of the administration is an "unpardonable offense." Now there is, reverend in all its hideousness. Here is positive proof that Wilson is a politician and it ought to bring a blush to the cheeks of every proud citizen of America. How long, how long, oh fellow-citizens, will we suffer this catastrophe to disfigure our lot and menace our liberties? If we weekly submit to such foul assaults upon the beauty of the national capital, some fine day Wilson will walk out with an axe and chop down the statue monument to the immortal George, which now stands serenely on the bank of the Potomac.

Doesn't it make your blood boil with indignation when you contemplate the conduct of a president who thus degrades America in the eyes of the whole civilized world? Assume, moreover, that the nation of the betrayer of its honor and restore the good old days of magnanimity.

SENATOR LODGE STARS AS HE GOSSIP

It is not a very dignified role for a distinguished statesman to assume but Senator Lodge has volunteered to play the rôle in one of the greatest of modern political dramas, entitled "The Hoosier." It is true that the senator feels that he is the author of the play. Like the ordinary schoolboy he asserts that he has repeated the ruse just as it was told to him, making his self the mouthpiece of mendacious men who scruple at nothing in their efforts to slander the president of the United States. In fairness to Senator Lodge it should be said that he has issued a statement accepting the denial which the president put forth concerning the false report which he gave nation-wide currency but it is the nature of group that when once it is known it can be only partially recalled.

Quoting what purported to be information coming from Mr. Breckinridge, former assistant secretary of war, Senator Lodge heralded the news that a postscript to the administration's note to Germany regarding the Lusitania had been written, which practically nullified its force, intimating that Uncle Sam was not as much in earnest as the note indicated and that the mailed would be subject to arbitration. Mr. Lodge didn't claim to have received this information directly from Mr. Breckinridge but quoted others who said they had talked to the former assistant secretary about it.

Mr. Breckinridge promptly denied with emphasis that he gave anybody such information and then from President Wilson came a straightforward repudiation of the report. The president said arbitration had been suggested by one member of his official family but was never considered by the cabinet and was rejected by him after due consideration.

After accepting the president's denial of the report, Senator Lodge goes on to say that the fact that such a suggestion as arbitration in any form was ever made reflects upon the manner in which the administration has handled our foreign relations. It makes no difference what the president did, it indicates weakness that a suggestion which was not followed by him was even offered. This is the serious conclusion drawn by Senator Lodge after his canard was exploded and it seems to expect some citizens to agree with him.

The Lodge incident is interesting in illustrating the lengths to which the enemies of Wilson are willing to go in their efforts to cast reproach upon him. The group to which the senator gave publicity is on a par with a host of other shadowy reports that have been published by the spokesmen of the opposition party. The president introduced and his every official act directed in the effort to make political capital. It looks like sheer desperation when a great statesman like Senator Lodge stoops to the methods of the ordinary scatological monger. He seems to have forgotten that the American people love fair play and that they will resent such tactics as he has introduced into the campaign.

The Sunday school teacher was talking to her pupils on patience. She explained her topic carefully, and as she did so understanding she gave each pupil a card bearing the picture of a boy fishing. "Even pleasure," she said "requires the exercise of patience. See the boy fishing; he must sit down and wait. He must be patient. And now can any little boy tell me what we need most when we go fishing?"

The answer was quickly shouted with the voice: "Bait!"—Seated

"That was a great speech you made," said the enthusiastic friend.

"Do you think it will help me?" asked Senator Borgham.

"Unquestionably. It may not have much influence in public affairs, but it ought to get you an engagement with any lecture bureau."—Brooklyn Citizen.

MARIE WILLYUM' IN BRENHAM

Wm. E. Dwyer, of this city, has been visiting his old haunts in Brenham, Texas, and one of the papers there prints the following:

De good times come, ole mistia,
In de passin' uv de year.
Wid de cotton price arisin'.
En Marie Willyum livin' here.
He's slanglin' an' ev'akin'.
Wid his crit'n scrowdin' round.
For everybody loves him
In good ol' Brenham town.

We never, never, "slamed him."
Like dat 'po white 'oman tol'.
When we joked him 'bout his money.
In de happy days uv ole.
Kase we knows our dear Marie Willyum.

An' we knows he loves de fun,
Erabout politicks in Brenham.
En de keepin' of his 'mon.'

He's quit talkin' erabout Roosevelt,
When he tells de votin' news.
For he hopes ter git er office
Ef de facts dat Mr. Hughes.
We's sorry fur Marie Willyum.
Kase we knows how bad he'll feel.
When Wilson's big majority
Jist cogs dat Hughes Wheel:
But we'll keep him here in Brenham
A bigger task ter tote,
En let him min'e de chillian'
When de wimmin goes ter vote!

BRIEF DECISIONS

The truth is that few men have their price, but a lot of them are trying to get it.

Some men don't think anything of spending ten dollars worth of time trying to borrow five.

Some people wait until the wings of the morning are pretty well clipped before they get out of bed.

There may be plenty of room at the top, but that is no reason why people should swell up when they get there.—Fudge.

Again we must remind our friends that we positively will not accept "want," "rent" and "sale" ads by phone. Do not embarrass us by asking us to do so. DAILY EXPRESS.

SIMPSON'S LAST STATEMENT TO VOTERS

To the Voters of Grady County:

The campaign is now nearing a close and on the seventh day of November you will be called upon to elect the officers from president down to the local township boards, which will include the county officers of this county, of which, as you know I am, at this time, the candidate for county attorney on the Democratic ticket.

My position on all matters has been many times stated from the stump and through the press. Hence I take it as unnecessary at this time to reiterate the principles of my platform, but I will say that if you elect me your county attorney I will give to you a clean-cut, and efficient administration, I will see that the interest of the taxpayer is protected to that degree of economy consistent with efficient service. I will see that the affairs of my office and the county government, so far as it comes within my duty, are administered upon that high plane that will cause each and every department of county government to be run and administered according to law. My duty as county attorney, so far as the same involves the administration of my office, will be conducted with impartiality and justice toward all who are informed against in this county, so far as come under the jurisdiction of the county attorney, will be well administered by me. I then ask you for your support.

I appreciate the honor that you have conferred upon me in giving me this nomination and I appreciate the honor conferred upon me in the past by having elected me to this office for the two years that I served you in this capacity, and the continuation of your support at this time will be greatly appreciated by me and I assure you that no act of mine will ever cause you to regret having cast your ballot for me at this election.

Yours very respectfully,
OSCAR SIMPSON,
Candidate for County Attorney.

The Laziest Shepherd.
A century and more ago a pamphlet entitled "The Shepherds of Salisbury Plain" set forth their notorious laziness and said a gentleman offered a prize of a guinea to the laziest of a score of shepherd boys. Some started up to claim the prize, which was won by the shepherd who merely murmured an invitation to shove it into his pocket.—London Globe.
